Cattle Identification

Why Tag Cattle?

o Inventory control
o Animal Management
o Compliance

What You'll Get by Identifying your Cattle

o Breeding Cattle Inventory
o Female Culling
o Carcass Data for Female Selection
o Premium beef programs
o Make the most of your production & mgmt processes

* Ideas based on: "Individual Cattle Identity Records for Cow-Calf Producers: Ways to Make Records Cost Effective" by James M. McGrann, Lawrence Falconer, and Gary Rupp.

USDA Animal Traceability Rules

"Livestock belonging to species covered by the regulations that are moved interstate must be officially identified and accompanied by an interstate certificate of veterinary inspection or other documentation."

"It is our view that recognizing any identification method agreed to by the shipping and receiving States or Tribes as official would expand the range of identification methods that would be so recognized to an unacceptable degree, thereby hindering traceability. However, in keeping with our goal of having a flexible traceability system, we will allow for the use of other options deemed adequate at the local level by retaining in this final rule the provision that the shipping and receiving States or Tribes may agree to accept any other form of identification in lieu of official identification. "

Texas Animal Health Commission Rules

"All sexually intact cattle, parturient or post parturient, or 18 months of age and older changing ownership must still be officially identified with Commission approved permanent identification."

Acceptable forms of official identification:

- USDA silver metal ear tags
- USDA orange RFID and alphanumeric metal ear tags
- DHIA (Dairy) tag
- Official breed association tattoo, freeze brand or fire brand (unique ID)
- RFID tags (900/global)
- RFID tags (840/USDA)
- Visual tag printed with ranch name and mgmt number
